

sharky/sharkey alu

neuland, paster & geldmacher

The name comes from the two “fins” at the rear of the chair, the coupling between the frame and the base. The structure has a polyurethane finish and legs in solid beech wood or European oak. Sharky can be fitted with thin padding and upholstered in high-quality Kvadrat® fabric, in a choice of colours that provide many contrasting combinations.

sharky base finish:

wood base- Solid beech, solid European oak wood, walnut stained solid oak wood and lacquered wood.

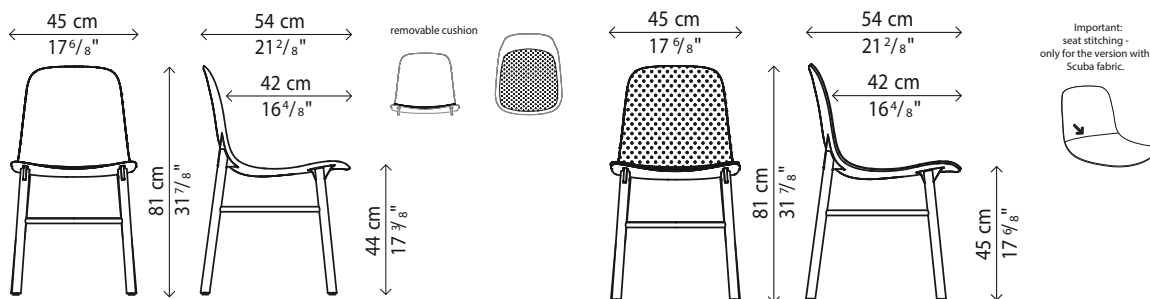

sharky Alu base finish: lacquered aluminium.

body finish: White, black, beige, terracotta brown, brown, olive green and light blue polyurethane finish of cover:

Divina MD/Divina Melange 2 fabric, field fabric and scuba fabric

sharky stool neuland, paster & geldmacher

Stools available in two heights with seats in different shapes with wood legs. Two sinuous stools with narrow lines and an overall effect that is extremely resistant. The high stool entirely replicates the seat of the chair and becomes a comfortable bar stool, whereas the low stool has been shortened for a more harmonious overall effect. The two fin-shaped coupling elements clearly remain on the rear part, as a linking element between the frame and the base; a technical detail that is the key characteristic of the project. These two versatile seats are ideal for use in the home or as a distinguishing feature of a project at a restaurant, bar or hotel. The Sharky stool can be fitted with light padding and upholstered in high-quality Kvadrat® fabric in different colours that create many combinations.
